Gregory P. Irish, Director
Department of Employment Services

INTRODUCTION

In 1984, the Department of Employment Services (DOES) published its first directory, listing the top 200 Chief Executives Officers of the major employers in the District of Columbia. Since then, the directory has served as an invaluable tool to business planners, administrators, and other parties interested in gaining access to the District's leading employers.

The 2005 directory, Top 200 Chief Executive Officers of Major Employers in the District of Columbia, continues to ensure that contact information of local business is readily accessible to those who need it. The directory represents a variety of local industries such as social services, department stores, restaurants, hotels, educational institutions, construction firms, financial institutions, and membership organizations. The industry classifications used to list employers and CEOs are from the North American Industry Classification System (NAICS), 2002. The names of CEOs and human resource directors, as well as contact information on the top major local private sector firms, are listed and employers are ranked according to the size of their workforce as reported to the District's Unemployment Compensation Program as of September 2004.

We encourage you to use this resource to its fullest. This snapshot of the District of Columbia job market represents the industries that help to ensure the District's economic prosperity.

OVERVIEW

Each of the firms listed in the Directory employs between 300 to more than 7,200 employees. Approximately one percent of these firms employ more than 150,500 people, although employment can decline rapidly over a period of time. Of the 200 employers listed, educational institutions are the largest group, with approximately 24,900 workers or 17% of the 150,500 workers. The second largest employer is hospitals, with approximately 17,300 employees or 11% of 150,500. Law firms follow with 11,200 workers; hotels with 8,700; and food services establishments with 4,300 workers.
